ABOUT THE EVENT

Develop a deep understanding of key data literacy competencies required for an EL1 & EL2. Aligned with the APS Data Capability Framework, this workshop will enable you to understand key tools and strategies that will make your work life flow with ease when it comes to data.

Join us as expert facilitator Kristy Delaney guides you through the importance of effective data literacy in your role and how to manage the data literacy of your team. Together you'll drill down into key strategies for sourcing relevant data and visualising data in a way that presents persuasive evidence. Having had government experience, Kristy can guide you through a hands-on curriculum tailored to your data needs as an EL1 & EL2.

Connect with leaders across the public sector through this accessible and interactive online environment. High in demand, secure your spot!

YOUR FACILITATOR

Kristy Delaney is a researcher and evaluator with more than twenty years of experience in delivering high-quality research and evaluation in human services, across government and non-government sectors. Kristy holds expertise in demographic profiling, indicator and indicative trajectory development, systematic review and evaluation of programs, economic impact assessments, large-scale quantitative and qualitative surveys, focus groups, structured interviewing, case study development, development of results logic diagrams, data and statistical analysis. Kristy is an experienced trainer and has facilitated more than 200 training and workforce development programs, forums and consultations with a variety of audiences. Throughout her career, Kristy has demonstrated a strong commitment to social justice and the active involvement of young people in decision making. She has established local, regional and statewide youth leadership opportunities for disadvantaged young people, initiated youth peer research initiatives, developed resources for young people about taking action on issues of concern, and provided training to young people including youth councils. Kristy has a strong commitment to self-determination for Aboriginal people and has recent experience in research and evaluation activities in the Aboriginal Affairs portfolio.
